Longevity. While I am no gloom apostle. Here to tell of oysters few. I must own they seldom jostle. In an ordinary stew. The vast crowded hall was inapt silence. The drop of a pin could have been heard, but nobody dropped one. "And so, ladies and gentlemen," concluded the famous Professor Spimner, "I will conclude my lecture on longevity by summing up the seven essential rules. First, eleven quarts of buttermilk should be consumed daily; second, the skins of potatoes and of all fruit except the African peach should always be eaten; fourth, a dash of paprika and a pint of blue writing ink should be mixed with your bath water twice a day; sixth, socks must never on any account be worn in the house; twelfth, all bread ought to be at least two weeks old, and seventeenth, you should eat with your knife as much as possible. I myself have observed these rules religiously and by their aid I confidently expect to reach the age of one hundred."

Amidst tumultuous applause and some handclapping, Professor Spimner descended from the platform, left the lecture room, and while putting on his coat in the hallway, inadvertently stepped into an armhole and tripped out of a low open window eleven stories above the street.

A PUBLIC RECEPTION FOR JUDGE TAFT IS NOW ARRANGED FOR THOSE ATTENDING LECTURE WEDNESDAY EVENING INVITED TO GREET HIM PERSONALLY.

EVERYONE IS INVITED

Governor Philipp, L. C. Whittier, State Treasurer Johnson and Insurance Commissioner Cleary to Be Present.

Wednesday evening Judge William Howard Taft speaks at the Myers Theatre on "International Peace." It is a question that is in the minds of everyone at this critical period in the history of our nation and one in which both the men and women of this city are vitally interested with a war with Mexico varying and possibly of a European crisis at hand.

There is perhaps no man in the United States better prepared to give a clear conception of what this situation really is than former President Taft. Through the long troublesome days of the past two years Judge Taft has stood fairly and squarely behind President Wilson, the chief executive of this nation, and his attitude has done much to insure the support of the true republicans in congress to the preservation of peace in these trying times.

His address is for men and women. It is not a political speech in the least. It is not a campaign oration, but a careful resume of the subject that is foremost in everyone's mind. The sale of seats for the address will begin rapidly and it is expected that by Wednesday evening the S. R. O. sign will be displayed at Myers Theatre. The committee on arrangements has decided upon a public reception for the former president immediately following the address, on the stage of the theatre. All who attend the lecture will be given an opportunity of shaking hands personally with one of the greatest of America's citizens in private life if they desire. The lecture is open to the public generally and it is expected that it will avail themselves of the opportunity.

Immediately preceding the lecture the orchestra from the Wisconsin Institute for the blind will give a complimentary concert from seven-fifty five until eight-fifteen which will be well worth listening to. The doors of the theatre will open at seven-thirty to give all who desire to hear the concert ample time to find their seats.

Chairman W. H. Doucety has received word that Governor Philipp, Hon. L. C. Whittier, State Treasurer Johnson and M. C. Cleary, commissioner of insurance, will arrive in Janesville at seven o'clock Wednesday evening to meet the former president of the United States and attend his address. They will return on an evening train.

COURT HELD TODAY BY JUDGE FIFIELD

County Court Judge Presiding Over Municipal Court Sentences Frank Sager for Larceny.

Judge Charles Fifield, magistrate at the county court, presided at the municipal court this morning in the absence of Judge H. L. Mottard, and sentenced Frank Sager to six months under the Huber law. This penalty is the maximum sentence under the law for petty larceny, to which Sager pleaded guilty. Judge Fifield occupied the bench at the municipal court for many years, being elected county judge after his resignation from the municipal court.

Sager was charged with stealing fifty grain sacks from the Blodgett Milling company, which were valued at $11.50. Sager pleaded guilty. The charge of second offense drunkenness was not pressed against Sager, for authorities held the view that the defendant, working on parole under the commitment law, would have some opportunity of supporting his family.

Chief of Police Champion this morning turned out three suspects that have been held since Saturday night, when they were arrested while attempting to steal brass material. No reports were received from other cities of motal thefts and the police failed to find evidence enough to hold the men.

SUSTAINS DEMURRER IN INTERURBAN CASE

Judge Grimm Dismisses Action of Widow to Recover Damages—Suit is for Federal Court.

Judge Grimm has sustained the demurrer to the complaint of the plaintiff in the case of Hazel M. Bell versus the Rockford and Interurban Railway company, which will result in a dismissal of the action.

The plaintiff is the widow of Samuel C. Bell of Beloit, the latter for several years being an employee of the Interurban company as a conductor. His run during the year 1914 was between the city of Rockford, and Janesville. In the afternoon of September 8, 1915, he left Rockford on a train bound for Janesville. While on the way a severe storm occurred. While on McKee boulevard that night, not far from the railway interlocking plant, the car stopped for lack of power. Mr. Bell went to the nearest telephone of the railway company, for the purpose of inquiring the cause of the trouble. Upon taking the telephone receiver he was electrocuted, his death being instantaneous. It appears that the wind had broken the ends of the wire and one of the ends had fallen across the telephone wire near Yost park, a short time before Mr. Bell went to the telephone. The accident causing his death occurred before the railway officials learned of the break in the wire.

Before they could shut off the electric current. The railway company took charge of the remains and paid the funeral expenses. In addition they offered to pay the widow $1,700, although disclaiming liability. She refused this offer. The railway officials claimed that the death resulted from an act of God, and not through negligence. She began action to recover damages, L. D. Gettle of Madison and Owen Riland of Beloit being her attorneys.

The complaint asked $10,000 damages. The Rockford and Interurban Railway company demurred to the complaint, stating that the widow could not institute the action in her individual capacity, that administration should be had upon the estate of the deceased, and the action begun by the administrator.

On the argument Thos. S. Nolan, the attorney for the railway company, contended that Mr. Bell at the time of his death was engaged in interstate commerce; that the complaint so indicated; and under the federal law, which applies in the case, the action was improperly brought. He submitted several authorities which he claimed sustained his contention.

The case was argued on the twenty-eighth of last month and again on the sixth of this month. The attorneys for the plaintiff, however, asked for further time to submit a brief or determine what to do next.

The hearing was, therefore, adjourned by the court until this date, when an order was made sustaining the demurrer.

Very truly yours, L. H. HART, Prop. C. J. Lephart, Prop. Dec. 24th, 1915. Norman, Nebr.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Janesville, Wis., March 13, 1916.

To the Janesville Gazette:

I notice in today's Gazette that the commission is going ahead with the Franklin street brick pavement in spite of the protests of the majority of the property owners, giving as an excuse the street railway—that no other but a brick pavement will do.

If the honorable commission will but take a look they will see the street railway is in miles of macadam streets.

It is but a very thin excuse for not giving the people what they want. If South Franklin street was well gravelled and rolled it would make a good street for twenty years, as it is the least traveled street in the city that is south of Pleasant street.

I protest against brick pavement on account of the expense and hardship it will incur on us poor people who are working hard to get along.

Signed a taxpayer, H. W. GAULKE, 409 South Franklin St.

Thousands Recommend This Reliable Kidney Medicine

I wish to state that in the ten years that I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I have never known of a single customer who did not feel satisfied with the results obtained from its use and speak very favorably regarding Swamp-Root. They always come back and ask for it and that in itself is a sufficient guarantee of the value of the preparation in the troubles it is intended to cure. It is a splendid kidney medicine and I take happiness in handling and selling same.

Very truly yours, L. H. HART, Prop. C. J. Lephart, Prop. Dec. 24th, 1915. Norman, Nebr.

LOCAL PIN TOURNNEY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Fifty Teams Have Entered in Janesville's First Annual Pin Tournney.

—Match Games Last Night.

Janesville's first annual southern Wisconsin bowling tournament will open tomorrow night at the Miller alley with an entry list of about fifty five-man teams. Cities within a radius of fifty to seventy-five miles have entered their teams and prospects look very bright for the officers of the local bowling association.

The first of next week will see sixteen teams here from Rockford, Madison, and three or four from Watertown. Each team entered will roll in the five man events, in the doubles and in the singles. There is quite a lot of interest shown by the Janesville people and fans who signed up to roll in the different events.

Tomorrow night the first teams will roll the balls down the alleys, marking the opening of the tournament. Two three from the Gazette Printing company are first on the list.

Last night's scores.

In the match games last night at the Miller alleys, Miller's Cubs came back strong in the last event and made up for their loss in the first two events. They won the match from the Peerless five by a good margin. Howard had high man with a score of 211.

Scrivens' Barbers could not win from the Clothing Clerks last night, so subsequently lost the match by a score of over one hundred pins.

In the other match game on these alleys the Parker single men defeated the married men by a good margin and still kept up their record.

At the West Side alleys two teams from the Moose lodge engaged in a matched struggle last night, which resulted in a victory for the No. 2 squad. Following are the scores and lineups:

APPLY FOR CHARTER FOR STAGING MATCHES

Terry Durkin of Chicago Seeking Matches Before Wisconsin Club.

—May Start Club Here.

There is some talk that Janesville is to have a boxing club, and it is reported that application has been made to the state boxing commission for a permit to stage a match during the latter part of this month. Whether the proposed boxing club will "fizzle" or be a success, of course, cannot be told at the present time. It has been nearly two years since boxing bouts were held in this city, ring followers having to content themselves with Milwaukee and Beloit exhibitions.

Both Clint and Morris Flynn, Chicago boxers, who appeared in Beloit bouts, are anxious to sign for matches here, and both of them are willing and capable prize ring men. Terry Durkin, whom Chicago Highweights have a habit of sidestepping, is also seeking bouts in Wisconsin. He is recommended for any exhibition that may be staged here, for he is considered one of the best fighters in the Windy City at the present time. In a bout held on Labor Day at Chicago Heights Durkin won over "Rabbit" Heulin, whom Chicago had taken for a long while, until he bumped into Durkin. This lightweight has engaged in fifty bouts, won twenty with a knockout, awarded the decision in twenty-two, fought four draws, and lost point victories in the others when he started in the pugilistic game. Durkin is managed by Fonda Burke, formerly of this city.

Clint Flynn, Chicago featherweight, pleased the Janesville fans with his fighting in Beloit bouts and it would not be a bad guess on the part of the Janesville men seeking to stage the bouts to match this little slugging demon with Young Scotty, who is now down in Ohio bowing over eastern featherweights. Durkin is anxious to appear either in Janesville or Beloit to show his gladiatorial wares to the boxing fans.

FINANCIAL RECORDS IN COMING BATTLE

John W. Gates in His Palmy Days Had Nothing on Promoters of Willard-Moran Bout.

—BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, March 14.—With two weeks intervening before the principals enter the ring the Willard-Moran bout has already broken financial records for pugilistic battles held in New York state. The actual receipts for tickets sold and paid for to date is $16,000, figures $15,000. In addition to this sum tickets valued at $20,000 are being held for persons who have not as yet taken up their reservations. The $125,000 worth of tickets originally printed but $20,000 remain unsold and the majority of these are the three and five dollar seats which will not be put on sale until a day or two before the bout.

The heaviest sale has been made in the twenty-five dollar reserved and box seats, although there is a big demand for the ten and fifteen dollar coupons. Notwithstanding the care exercised by the promoters a considerable number of tickets are finding their way into the hands of speculators and the indications point to these gentry reaping a royal harvest since one box has already sold for $3,000, which is several times the face value of the pastebords.

The demand for seats from out-of-town points is most surprising. The feature of the advance sale, but forty percent of the tickets disposed of to date have been taken by mail and telegraph applications from the large cities of the middle west, and New England. Chicago, Pittsburgh, Boston, Cleveland and Detroit put in large applications with scattering requests as far west as Kansas City.

Advance Sale.

This advance sale clearly indicates that the receipts for the ten round bout scheduled for March 25 will surpass by more than fifty thousand dollars the largest gate ever collected for such a contest in New York state and with the exception of the Johnson-Jeffries battle at Reno, Nev., July 4, 1910, the largest in the history of the prize ring. The gross receipts of this bout were $270,755. Jeffries and Sharkey drew $65,300, when they fought at Coney island in 1910. Gibbons and McFarland boxed before a $35,000 gate when they met at Brighton Beach last September and the Corbett-McCoy contest in New York City on August 22, 1910.

Baseball Games.

A number of intercollegiate baseball games between the leading college universities and of the south, east and middle west will be a feature of the intercollegiate baseball season which will open early next month. During the southern training trips of the eastern varsity teams Virginia will play Amherst, Williams, Yale and Cornell. The Navy has games with Amherst, Lafayette, Williams, Cornell, Harvard and Trinity. Georgetown, Virginia, Yale, Williams, Princeton, Penn State and Yale.

Later in the season several of the southern and western college nines will play in the east, the principal contests being as follows: Harvard vs. Georgetown, Virginia, Yale vs. Virginia, Princeton vs. Virginia and Army vs. Georgetown. Both Michigan and the Michigan Aggies will play one or more games in the east, the leading contests being as follows: Rochester vs. Michigan Aggies; Michigan vs. Cornell, Syracuse, Swarthmore and Pennsylvania.

EDGERTON GETS FIRST PLACE IN FINALS AT TOURNAMENT

Whitewater, March 13.—Edgerton won the basketball tournament of the Normal gymnasium here Saturday afternoon in a hard contest with Beloit. Coming from behind in the second half Edgerton gained on Beloit and by the aid of making all free throws but one, and they were numerous on account of Beloit's holding, tied the score. Five minutes were given to play off the tie of 16 to 16 and Edgerton ran away with the game by making the final score 22 to 17. Beloit lost two men in the five minutes each having four fouls against him. The Edgerton team is well balanced and plays a fast, clean game. They are good at basket shooting and their team work is excellent. The winning of this game gave Edgerton first place. Beloit was second and Jefferson by winning from Janesville a score of 11 to 4 won third place. The game of 11 to 4 was a hard fought and seemed exhausted from having played so many games in the tournament.

PREPAREDNESS.

Just at this time when there is serious discussion of calling out a quarter of a million of volunteers for foreign service the question of preparedness again comes to the fore front and the Kansas City Journal has made some interesting tables on the question that are well worth considering just at this time. The Journal says: "Probably no word has ever dropped more frequently or more glibly from the tongues of the American people and with so little understanding of its real meaning as the word 'preparedness.' People know of course that preparedness means being ready with an army and navy for resistance if the United States is invaded by an enemy, but the immense amount of preliminary work that must be accomplished before a state of actual preparedness is reached and how it is done are details to which the average citizen has given little thought. It is customary to imagine that mere soldiers in the bulk constitute a machine for defense and that with an army of a million men there need be no worry about incidents.

"Assuming that 1,000,000 men stood ready to take up arms for the defense of the nation against a foreign class power, what would they need immediately before they could take part in a single battle? Just to feed them would require 4,000,000 pounds of solid food and 3,000,000 pints of coffee daily. To equip this army would require 750,000 rifles, 2,000 field guns, 200,000 horses to haul these guns, 165,000,000 rounds of cartridges and hundreds of other things that are not at present available.

"That the citizen soldier may have some adequate idea of the tremendous amount of preparation that must be accomplished before preparedness is a fact, two army officers have drawn up a schedule of war from the inside. This is not a manual of training, but a treatise in plain language and a guide by which the layman may inform himself in a general way concerning military rudiments, so that if he is ever called upon to defend his country he may understand better the general nature of things military. In this connection many popular fallacies are pointed out such as the alleged geographical security of the United States; the idea that Americans are born soldiers; that European nations will be too exhausted to be feared after the war; that lack of money abroad will prevent a war; that, prepared or unprepared, the United States can 'lick' and nation on earth and that money and material resources are synonymous with military strength.

"What does an army of 1,000,000 men want? One million men marching four abreast would extend over a line 400 miles long, practically from Kansas City to the Colorado border. Some of the things that these million men must be provided with before they can fight are:

265,000 pistols, little brothers of the rifle; 8,000 machine guns, the military scythe; 2,100 field guns to batter down attack; 165,000,000 cartridges to carry them into their set fight, and many more for each succeeding fight; 2,500,000 shells and shrapnel for our field guns for every hour they are in action; 196,000 horses to carry them and pull their gun carriages; 127,000 mules to haul their supplies and pack their guns; 8,600 wagons to transport their supplies and ammunition; 1,000,000 cartridge belts for their ammunition; 1,500,000 first aid packets to bind up their wounds; 1,000,000 canteens.

"Each of them must have uniform and equipment: 1,000,000 shelter halves to protect them from the weather; 1,000,000 ponchos to keep them dry; 2,000,000 blankets to keep them warm; 2,000,000 pairs of shoes; 2,000,000 uniform coats, breeches, leggings, suits of underwear; 1,000,000 hats; 2,000,000 shirts; 4,000,000 pairs of socks; 1,000,000 haversacks to carry their equipment.

"Finally they must eat: 1,000,000 pounds of meat each day; 1,000,000 pounds of bread each day; 2,000,000 pounds of vegetables each day; 3,000,000 pints of coffee or tea each day.

"All this must be purchased, transported, prepared and cooked each day, and to eat it, they must have: 1,000,000 cups; 1,000,000 plates; 1,000,000 knives; 1,000,000 forks; 1,000,000 spoons.

"To provide for proper care, training and leadership in battle they should have: 25,000 trained officers.

"The calling into service of 1,000,000 men would mean the organization, equipping and training of ten armies the size of the complete regular army of the present time. If 1,000,000 men should apply at the recruiting offices it would require the uninterrupted effort of 1,000 recruiting parties working day and night for more than ten days to enroll and enlist them. It would require a week to move them to the camps, provided all the suitable railroad equipment of the country were given over to this work alone.

"One thousand men would have to work day and night for ten days to erect the tents for them, and when completed this camp would amount to a city of more than 125,000 tents covering an area of more than 8,000 acres, an area equal to the size of St. Joseph."

SUFFRAGE IN WISCONSIN.

Wisconsin was quite a reluctant suffrage state, apparently, she is now. Today it is the women who are denied; then it was the negro. Not at the polls, but by a legal decision, the colored race finally won its right to vote in this state. It achieved the victory just half a century ago, after a discouraging struggle of nearly twenty years.

The question of negro suffrage first came to a test in Wisconsin in 1847, when the state constitution was being adopted. It was then defeated by an overwhelming vote of almost two to one. In 1849 it was again brought up, but so slight was public interest and so few were the votes cast upon it, that although it won by a small majority, the board of canvassers disallowed the result. Twice more in subsequent years was the question submitted and each time decisively defeated. The last reverse came in the fall of 1865, when thousands of Wisconsin soldiers decided that the black man whom they had freed from bondage was unfit for citizenship. In November, 1865, however, a Milwaukee negro, named Gillespie, brought suit in the supreme court of the state for the privilege of the vote, averring that the board of canvassers in 1849 had overstepped its authority in rejecting the election returns of that year. The case was eloquently argued by Byron Paine, the great Milwaukee abolitionist, Judge, and soldier, and on March 27, 1866, the Wisconsin tribunal handed down its verdict in Gillespie's favor. The state, to its surprise, discovered that for over sixteen years, its negro residents had been legally qualified voters.

HERE IS A PROBLEM.

When will the official term of Woodrow Wilson officially end? It also involves the question of when his successor will be inaugurated, and is occasioning discussion among the constitutional sharks in congress. Next year, for the first time in the history of the nation, it is asserted, March 4th will fall on Sunday. Nor will this occur again, the sharks claim for another 133 years. According to the Constitution, the president's term ends at noon on March 4th, but will the next president be inaugurated on Sunday—and if not, when?

There should be no spirit of jealousy between any elements in the city seeking to accomplish the greatest good for the community as a whole. The work of the builders' exchange in promoting the traction engine is most laudable but just the same is the cash contributions which were received from the men who could not give their manual labor. Labor and capital must work hand in hand and neither side must scoff the other.

Former President Taft will be here Wednesday evening. Governor Philipp, former Speaker Whitte, State Treasurer Johnson and Insurance Commissioner Cleary are expected to be present to hear the talk on International Peace, and pay their respects to the greatest American now in public life.

The fact that one belongs to the working people and is thereby entitled to some special indulgences during Lent, does not prove that he belongs to that class when he is trying to get into society.

It is now estimated that the valuation of the railroads will cost $50,000,000.

and it will furnish a lot of valuable information that everyone knew before.

Some of these congressmen who are talking so loud at Washington do not seem to realize that the congressional record is run at large expense to save the country from hearing all that.

It is not known that any of the boys have declined to join the poultry clubs on the ground that the crowing of the roosters would disturb the neighbors.

The congressmen and cabinet officers may have been able to walk through the Washington trolley strike but it is doubtful if the government clerks could do so.

One way to join the thrift movement is to hurry down and buy an automobile on account of the chance that the price may go higher before the season is over.

The girls might be more interested in the Hope Economic clubs if they gave more thorough courses in the making of fudge and the manipulation of chafing dishes.

Many of the colleges are raising their tuition fees, which is undoubtedly necessary owing to the high cost of athletic grounds.

There is a widespread feeling among the motorists that it is wicked for the war to continue and keep the price of gasoline so high.

While mother was at the child welfare conference, the children were quietly celebrating Baby week around the sugar bowl.

The militia officers are joining the preparedness movement by freshening up the gold braid on their uniforms.

STATEMENT of ROY M. CUMMINGS

TO THE VOTERS:

In the statements I have made concerning the coming election I have tried to be fair and say nothing except facts. I have tried to make the point that my seven years of experience, three as a City Clerk and four as a Councilman, should be of value to the people. Politics no longer play any part in city business, and the matter gets right down to the plain question as to which man is likely to give the City the best service.

I have never been influenced in my conduct by any consideration other than the betterment of Janesville. I always have, and always will, if re-elected, exercise my own judgment on all questions of city government. I think everybody must admit that Janesville is today one of the most orderly and best regulated cities in the country. I also think that everybody favors the continuance of these conditions.

We have been generous with our schools, but have been conservative in all expenditures. We have raised the pay of our teachers to meet increased cost of living, at the same time recognizing that good teachers cannot be paid in money what they are worth to a city. We have completely reorganized our police force and raised their pay from $65.00 per month to $70.00 with $75.00 for two captains. The police force is doing good work and meets with the general approval of the public. I mention these things, not with the idea of claiming all the credit for them, but because I have had my part in bringing them about. There is one thing that the people should know and it is of the greatest importance, that we have not spent one cent in the last four years without carefully looking into the facts, absolutely not one cent has been wasted. That our administration has been conducted on business principles is shown by our handling of the water works. When we took over this plant we determined to run it just as carefully as if it was our own private property. Municipal ownership of public utilities has not been an unqualified success. Mr. Roemer, when he was chairman of the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, said that private ownership was more successful because the management did not change with every election, and because under private ownership the management devoted its entire time to the business. He further said that in the past Municipal plants were run below cost and the deficiency met by bond issues. These reasons were given by a man who was admitted to be an expert. He was hired by a big corporation at a high salary. When we took this plant we determined as far as possible to meet all these objections. We first decided to run the plant for one year before making any change of any kind. Many people at first demanded an immediate change in rates, but when the policy was explained to them they agreed with it. We have run this plant absolutely separate from the City just as if it was a private plant. We have charged it with every possible item of expense that could be legitimately connected with its operation. We have installed a most complete system of accounting, which shows in detail the conditions of our business at all times. We have charged the Water Department $300.00 per year for its quarters in the City Hall. We have charged $1285.92 for taxes for nine months; $2248.26 for depreciation, in order that renewals might be made out of water revenues. It has carried its own legal expense and $1000.00 of my salary has been taken off from the taxpayers and charged to the Water Company. In short we have charged it with every proper expense and in nine months it has made us a clear net profit over all expense of $14,405.03. In spite of these charges we have run it at less expense than the private company and show a better profit.

I can say without fear of contradiction that our Water Department is run just as carefully as any private business in the city, and there are few if any private concerns keeping as complete a set of books as ours. I have been the manager of this plant for one year, and while I do not claim all the credit for its splendid showing I have done my part in bringing it about. We have also tried to give the water consumers the best possible attention. We felt that they were entitled to courteous treatment and I believe they have received it. In fact all throughout the city service we have impressed upon all officers and employees that every citizen is entitled to a courteous hearing and prompt service. Anyone who has had any business with the city must admit that this policy is pretty well observed.

We are running this water plant with a salary expense of $2800.00 less than the old company which saving will almost pay for the new addition to the pumping station. The first year of operation will show a net profit in excess of $18000.00. When we bought this plant it had no supplies to speak of and now we have on hand $3071.91 in supplies, in book value, but which are actually worth more because prices have gone up.

Now our policy with respect to this plant is as follows: We want to charge enough in rates to cover the cost of operation and up-keep and pay for the bonds in thirty years and the balance of net profits we expect to give in reductions to water consumers. We thought that thirty years was a fair basis upon which to figure the payment of the bonds. This will give the present users a chance to share substantially in the profits. This plant is a permanent fixture and those who are active in years to come should help pay for it. We have a rate engineer now working with us in figuring out the new rates, which will be cut as low as good business will permit. We do not care to make money. We simply want to make expenses and give the balance to the people.

I have given this branch of the work special attention and study and believe that the showing made should meet with the approval of the voters. I am familiar with the new system required by the Railroad Commission and it would seem that good business would suggest that no charge be made at this time. I solicit your interest and your vote at the primaries March 21, 1916.

Respectfully yours,
ROY M. CUMMINGS.
Candidate for Councilman.

DIRECTORS HELD NOT LIABLE FOR ALLEN'S DEFICITS

Directors of Institution Ruined By Phil Allen Held Not Liable for Lost Money.

Another chapter in the now almost forgotten career of Phil Allen and his wrecking of the Mineral Point bank some seven years ago has been written.

It is found in the approval and confirmation by Judge Humphrey of Chippewa of the United States district court from the brief submitted to him by A. E. Matheson of this city, who was appointed special master in the case.

Under Mr. Matheson's conclusions the directors of the bank did not violate the federal banking laws and are not held liable for the funds, securities, etc., misappropriated by Allen, although the latter is now serving time for his nefarious practices while cashier of the Mineral Point institution.

Judge Humphrey's supporting of the facts found by the special master has been a matter of interest, since it has not been confirmed by Mr. Matheson's findings, then a precedent would have been established through which the directors of every bank in the country would be held to a strict accountability and equally liable for the dishonest practices of another bank official.

This latter would make it necessary for each director to conduct a personal investigation of his bank's books and condition to protect himself from criminal prosecution while the president, cashier or other employee using his position and knowledge of the bank's affairs to further his own ends and to remove and funds rightfully the property of stockholders of the bank.

Three years were consumed in taking the testimony, which covered twelve hundred pages of typewritten copy. The bank's records, Oct. 11, 1908. C. L. Williams, representing the federal government, was appointed receiver. Stockholders in the Caledonian institution through Mr. Williams in 1911 commenced suit to hold the directors liable for the funds misappropriated by Allen. In July, 1912, the case was referred to Mr. Matheson, who was selected as a special master to take testimony and later submit it to the United States court.

With Allen there were seven defendants, the directors. They were Cal. Spaulley, James Brewer, John L. Grey, William P. Gray, John C. Black, Vivian and Richard J. Penhale, Sr.

The suit, a civil action, had been decided in favor of the plaintiff, the receiver, would have involved the returning of one hundred thousand dollars. Neither Mr. Matheson nor Judge Humphrey could see from the extensive testimony advanced how in any way the directors could be held liable.

PETITION OBJECTS TO BRICK PAVEMENT

Majority of Property Owners on South Franklin Street File Petition With Council Today.

A petition, said to bear the signatures of more than a majority of the property owners on South Franklin street, in protest to the laying of a brick pavement on that thoroughfare, as ordered by city council this year, was filed with the board of public works this afternoon. It was immediately taken under consideration by the members of the board. Despite the petition, according to the best information available, it was considered probable that the council would override the proposals for macadam pavement and insist on the laying of brick.

BELOIT MAN ESCAPES NON-SUPPORT CHARGES BY PAYMENT OF MONEY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Beloit, March 14.—Two years ago Sigurd Anderson was brought into municipal court for non-support of his wife and family. He was ordered to pay them money for their existence and education. Anderson started the gallery and the court by paying enough to keep the matter determined to keep the family two years. This period was up last week.

Sergeant Lapphaer started west to locate Anderson on another charge of a similar nature. He found him in Sanford, Minn. Anderson again paid the money for his family's support, $300 to the wife and children, and $175 to the police officer for his expenses. "It'd be cheap at half the price," said the sergeant, "and the officer boarded the train on his way east."

SET ASIDE A WEEK TO TEST SEED CORN

Governor Issues a Proclamation Relative to Threatened Shortage of Badger Strains.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 14.—So serious has become the shortage of the seed corn supply and so uncertain its germinating quality that Governor Phillips yesterday decided, after a conference with Commissioner C. P. Nord of the department of agriculture, to issue the following proclamation:

"Whereas, The department of agriculture has called my attention to the serious shortage of good seed corn in Wisconsin, due to the unfavorable ripening season last fall; I, therefore, deem it necessary to acquaint the public with the following facts:

"Many germinating tests have shown that little of the seed corn has sufficient vitality to make it safe for planting without securing a germinating test for each estate. Much of the seed saved, though low in germination, contains many ears of high vitality. These can be found and saved by a simple test of each ear.

"Many of Wisconsin's improved, home grown and acclimated strains of seed corn that otherwise might be destroyed and lost to the state, can in this way be saved and profitably used. Greatly decreased lands and yields, with much waste of time, money and effort, will surely follow if the seed on hand is planted without proper testing. The situation is so serious and need for immediate action so imperative that I deem it advisable to publicly call attention to these conditions.

Sets Aside Week.

"To this end I hereby proclaim the week from March 27 to April 1 as seed corn week. I urge that during this period every farmer thoroughly test each ear of his seed corn and eliminate all ears showing high germination. I also urge that business men of all classes encourage farmers in this work and they render assistance in obtaining acclimated seed of high vitality."

It is pointed out by Commissioner Nord that one ear of seed corn produces on the average 800 kernels. The failure of one seed corn means a failure of 800 kernels, a loss of 300 ears in the crop, eight bushels, or $4.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME...

With the rival construction crews, matters were reaching a somewhat critical stage in their race. Both the Colorado & Coast and the Copper Range & Tidewater companies had reached the limits of the city of Las Vegas, where, owing to the topography of the country as well as to the difficulties of getting through the town, possible rights of way were exceedingly scarce. A section almost immediately in front now of both construction gangs was occupied by a weather-beaten pioneer who bore the name of Cassidy, and his comfortable cottage obstructed both surveys. The advent of two railroads building neck and neck across the desert through the little town had naturally stirred every inhabitant of it to a high pitch of excitement. Small wonder that Cassidy's head had become in some degree confused as to values, and by the time Rhineland got around to see the bronzed pioneer with a check for two thousand dollars—the price first put upon the property by its veteran owner—valuations had risen and Cassidy declared that he would sell for ten thousand dollars and not a cent less.

Rhineland, considerably taken aback, impatiently assented to the exorbitant sum named, and going inside the cottage, wrote out his check for it. In exchange he received Cassidy's rather uncertain signature, on the customary legal form, granting to the Copper Range & Tide Water Railway company privileges over the Cassidy land as a freehold owner.

Seagrue, arriving from town, learned from his foreman of the status of the insignificant plot of ground, adverse possession of which might frustrate their persistent plans for obstructing Rhineland. With his survivors Seagrue hurried to the end of the work and reached the ground just in time to encounter Rhineland coming out of Cassidy's house and the agreement duly signed and delivered in his hand. And behind Rhineland came George Storm ready to bring the men up to demand possession of the Cassidy domain.

Seagrue and his followers halted them and Rhineland, feeling the victory all his own, explained the situation to Seagrue, while Storm, amiably, but firmly, ordered Seagrue's men to get off the Copper Range property.

Seagrue, without saying anything to controvert what he had heard, walked straight into Cassidy's house. "I'm sorry to be a little late, Cassidy," he began, bluntly. "You know we want your property. And we're prepared to pay you a reasonable price for it—not an extravagant price," declared Seagrue, impressively, "nothing of that kind, but—" he asked, buttonholing the old man with friendly emphasis, "just what is right and fair. I don't know what you consider your property worth," he continued, talking so fast the old man could not get a word in edgewise, "but I have written out a check here for fifteen thousand dollars. And if you will give me your signature to this right of way contract the check, old boy, is yours."

"But—" sputtered Cassidy, with difficulty. "I've sold this place this minute, Mr. Seagrue, to this man Rhineland here for ten thousand dollars." "Do you mean to say," demanded Seagrue, impressively, "that you don't consider your property worth fifteen thousand dollars?"

"Sure, I do," agreed Mike, his eyes blinking with astonishment. "Then," exclaimed Seagrue, solemnly, "this man has fraudulently imposed on you."

Cassidy, bewildered, looked to his friendly adviser for a suggestion. "Phwat the divil's in 'i to do?" "Do!" thundered Seagrue, seeing now that he had his victim coming. "Tear up your fraudulent contract here and now and sign an honest one."

The sturdy pioneer, with a show of indignation, tore up his copy of Rhineland's contract, signed a more equitable one for the obliging Seagrue and put another and untainted check for fifteen thousand dollars into his pocket.

Seagrue beckoned to his posse of men and, headed by Cassidy, they told Rhineland and his companions to get off the premises before they were put off.

ACTRESS DIVORCES JOHN D. WINNINGER

Miss Louise Grassler, Leading Woman in "Omar," Obtains a Decree in Milwaukee Court.

Miss Louise Grassler, in private life Mrs. Louise Cook Winninger, an actress of ability, who has played to Janesville audiences, secured a divorce in the Milwaukee circuit court on Monday from John D. Winninger, a brother of Frank Winninger, of Wausau, Wis., whose engagements at the Myers theatre in this city have been annual events. Mrs. Winninger is at present playing the leading female role with Guy Bates Post in "Omar, the Tentmaker," at a Milwaukee theatre.

The couple were married in Watertown, Wis., on Oct. 21, 1909. The actress testified that she suffered a nervous breakdown through overwork demanded by Winninger. She said Winninger forced her to rehearse plays in the morning and to play at matinees and at night performances and afterwards to go to home and do the housework. In the meantime she was compelled to study new plays, she said. She alleged Winninger deserted her in August, 1912.

FOOTVILLE

BRIDE OF SEVEN MONTHS IS CALLED BY DEATH

Footville, Wis., March 14.—News of the death of Mrs. Belle Parnley Reichard, who passed away at her home in Chicago on Friday last, after an illness of a few hours, was received with sadness in this village. Her former home, Mrs. Reichard was taken seriously ill on Thursday evening, and was at once taken to the hospital, where it was found that she was suffering from uremic poisoning. From the first there were small hopes of her recovery. All that medical skill and kind and loving hands could do was done to alleviate her suffering, but the end came at ten o'clock Friday morning, March 10.

Belle Parnley was born January 15, 1886, in this village, where her entire life was spent until her marriage to Dale Reichard August 26, 1915. Since that time she has resided in Chicago, although often visiting at her home here, and only about two weeks ago after a visit here she left for her home in Chicago seemingly in the best of health. News of her demise came as a terrible shock to her relatives and friends here and elsewhere.

Mrs. Reichard was a religiously disposed and in her early childhood days she gave her heart to God and united with the M. E. church. She always tried to live a consistent Christian life and upon her death passed, but that she read her Bible and tried to live up to its teachings.

Possessed of a mild and loving disposition, she made friends of all who knew her.

She leaves a young husband, of Chicago, a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Parnley; two sisters, Miss Zeh and Mrs. Millie Day; an aged grandmother, Mrs. Horner Beach, all of this place; an aunt, Mrs. Liel of Albany, Wis., and numerous other relatives who may rest assured that they will be remembered in all of this, their great bereavement.

At two o'clock Sunday afternoon brief funeral services were held from the home, where a large number of relatives and friends had congregated, the half of which could not gain admittance to the home where the bride of a few months ago lay as if sleeping upon a bed of roses, the casket being borne out on either side by mass of the most beautiful flowers, the gifts of relatives and friends.

Rev. Drew of the M. E. church conducted the services. At the close of the last and rites a large concourse of mourning relatives and sorrowing friends followed the remains to their last resting place in the Grove cemetery, there to await the final resurrection.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Moving picture fans who have been following the progress of the stars of silent drama during the past five years have a warm place in their hearts for Mary Fuller. They can remember when she was the most popular star on the screen. She is still popular, though we hear less of her nowadays.

The parts I have played in film-drama have been, in the majority, heroines in heart dramas, girls of love, rather than of daring," says Miss Fuller. "This may be because I am tender hearted and broad in my sympathies. Love in all its phases I have been asked to interpret—a sweetheart's tenderness, sisterly affection, mother love, filial love, wife's devotion, capricious passion of a wayward girl, a queen's justice to her people, a wife's self-sacrifice for her husband, philanthropy or love of the world, etc.

I have always loved my work, and my ambition and ambition in life has been to be the most popular star in the moving picture firmament."

The Ham company is producing a one-reel comedy written by Messrs. Hamilton and Duncan.

Ham and Bud's adventures in an effort to buy kisses from a pretty girl attracted $1,000 to the charity bazaar with their entire bank account of but 80 cents, and later their honest endeavor to earn the required amount in a oyster factory, two more situations which other comedians have made the most of.

PICTURE PEOPLE PLAY AT DOLLAR A MINUTE

Aeroplane has become one of the popular diversions among members of studio forces. Several noted aviators wintering in Long Beach have developed quite a business taking passengers up into the air at a rate of $1 a minute. Suffice it to say that they are getting rich.

One of the first to take advantage of the opportunity was William Conklin. He did $5 worth of skydiving one morning before work and said it was fine.

"LITTLE MARY" AGAIN CAPTIVATES

Popular Film Star at Her Best in "The Foundling."

Quite inexhaustible, it appears, is the peculiar artistic faculty of Mary Pickford, for creating transcendent screen triumphs.

Presenting a story of beautiful sentiments and tender appeal to the finer senses, "The Foundling," which was shown to four large audiences at the Apollo yesterday, epitomizes in a strongly dramatic manner the sufferings of a girl cast out into the world by the hatred of her father, because her birth has caused the death of the wife he had loved and worshipped.

As the castaway child, as the slavey in the home of the cruel woman who takes her from the orphanage, as the servant in the boarding house, and as the triumphant but humble girl of her father's dreams and love, when she is finally returned to his home and restored to the social position rightfully hers, Miss Pickford is consistently charming and artistically effective.

"Little Mary," her best, her most captivating mood, in her most triumphant ability and her most compelling power can be found in "The Foundling."

The Paramount travel pictures, as usual, were extremely interesting.

Bennie Kauff, the Ty Cobb of the departed Feds and now a Giant hold-out while the limelight is good, stands a fair chance of being ridden by the fans around the National circuit this year.

Mary Fuller.

Her next screen appearance will be in "The Weak."

Rex Beach's popular novel, "The Ne'er-Do-Well" has been converted into a photoplay. Some of the most interesting incidents of the story transpire at Panama, and to get the proper atmosphere a company of more than 100 players was sent to the Canal Zone. The canal itself forms the background for parts of the film.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Isn't Grace Taking Her Troubles to Heart, Though!

BY F. LEIPZIGER

"Greatness" on the Film.

It is never wise to predict that the miraculous will not occur. There may come a time when careful critics will award to some movie players the treasured adjective "great." But at the present time certainly any such use of the adjective would be absurd. The movie drama has not yet shown itself capable nor given the slightest indication that it ever can show itself capable of affording an actor the chance to do great work.—Walter Prichard Eaton in American Magazine.

A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

Kemp nodded. "I found him with everything fixed for kicking the bucket. He knew what was the matter, but he didn't tell me what it was. Said it had been comin' on him for some while an' that he 'waint no help for it. But he got your cable, Mr. Wayne, and he wanted I should tell you that what you done waint wasted. He said there waint nothin' that could help him through the way that cable did. He said it was the passport he'd been waitin' for an' that you waint to think it come too late, because he reckoned he was goin' to use it. Said it kinder cleared his trail for him. Them was all the things he said I should tell you."

Kemp stopped talking and frowned his drink. Alan sat silent and thoughtful. Lieber was gone and made a gap in life that he never knew had been filled. He wanted to know more. He turned to Kemp. "Well?"

"You remember the fox tree at Lieber's, Mr. Wayne? One of the loneliest trees on earth, I reckon, except when the Boogaviller comes out an' then it's a happy mountain o' red and purple that kind o' lights up the hill desert."

Alan nodded. "Well, then, you remember the big boulder of graywacke under the tree. That's Lieber's headstone. He had a mason up from the coast and he made me carry him out under the tree to watch the man work. He gave him a model cut into a box to copy from. I'm some reader, but them words beat me every time. I corralled 'em on a bit o' paper, though, an' here they be."

Kemp drew a slip of paper from the same old wallet that housed "The Purple City." He handed it to Alan. "Wish you'd put me on," he said. "All I know is it ain't American an' it ain't Mex."

The words on the slip looked as if they had been printed by a child with painstaking care. Alan stared at them. "Qui de nous n'a pas une terre promise, son jour d'extase, et sa fin en exil?" he read slowly to himself, and then, with his eyes far away, translated for Kemp. "Who of us has not had his promised land, his day of ecstasy and his end in exile?"

Kemp nodded and held out his hand for the slip of paper. He put it back in his wallet and said, "I suppose the fellow that wrote that was thinkin' mostly of a man's mind, but when it comes to facts them words don't fit Lieber. He got more exile than was comin' to him; it et up the ecstasy an' more of the promised land. But I don't know. They's lots of folks that needs to worry more'n Lieber over crossin' the divide."

They sat thoughtful for some time and then Alan remembered Red Hill. "Where are you staying, Kemp?"

"Astor house."

Alan looked at his watch. "Come on," he said. "We've got to hustle. We've just got time to rush down and get your bag."

"What for?" drawled Kemp.

"I was 'bound' for our place out in the country when I found you. We've got just forty minutes to catch the train. You're comin' with me."

A wary look came into Kemp's eyes. "Your folks out there, Mr. Wayne?" he asked.

"Yes," said Alan, and then added, "Kemp, do you take me for a man that would steer you up against a game you don't hold cards in?"

"No," said Kemp, "I don't," and then found himself hatted and hurried into a taxi before he could further protest.

slowly on the fragile structure, took off his domed hat and laid it on the grass at his side. For an instant Mrs. J. Y. fixed her soft, myopic gaze on him and then looked away. Olen brought him a cup of tea and a biscuit. Kemp held the cup and saucer in the hollow of his hand and looked dubiously at their contents. "Would you like something else, Mr. Kemp?" asked Mrs. J. Y. softly, "some other drink, I mean?"

Kemp's quick eye roved over the group. He saw that nobody was taking anything but tea and at the same time he noted gratefully that nobody was watching him. The judge and J. Y. were talking to each other. Nance, Junior, and Cousin Tom were kneeling before Gerry, Junior, stolen for a short hour from Alix. That dwarf Moloch, arrayed in starched white that stuck out like a ballet skirt above his sturdy, fat legs, was gravely devouring a sacrifice of cake. Charlie Sterling lay full length on the ground while his brood, with shrill cries at his frequent eruptions, buried and reburied him with sofa pillows. Nance, Alan and Clem sipped tea and cheered on the children's efforts.

Kemp turned a twinkling eye on Mrs. J. Y. "I ain't sayin', ma'am, that this mixture is my usual beverage, but a man don't expect to have his usual handed down from a pupil, and like-wise I see no call for folks turnin' their front lawns into a bar."

Kemp could feel a scene; his strange nature was moved at finding itself rubbing elbows with such a group and when Kemp was moved he always talked to hide his emotion. Mrs. J. Y.'s kindly eyes fell on him, made him feel weirdly akin to those quiet, contented men and women and clean-frocked, rosy-cheeked children frolicking against the peaceful setting of shady trees, old lawns and the rambling house that staidly watched them like some motherly hen, wings outspread, ever ready to brood and shelter.

Kemp's eyes left Mrs. J. Y.'s face and swept over the scene again. "Spoken of bars," he went on in his soft drawl. "I don't think a missus ever has no call to handle drinks over an' above what goes in 'nd out of a milk pail, which isn't drink in a manner o' speakin'. I can't rightly recollect that I ever seen a missus leanin' over either side of a bar in this country, but I've strayed some from the home fence an' you may be surprised, Miss Wayne, to know that they's lands where no one ain't never heard tell on a barman an' where barmaids is some commoner'n the milkin' brand."

"Yes?" said Mrs. J. Y. encouragingly.

"Sho' bing," replied Kemp. "I seen 'em. I won't forget the first time because I was considerable embarrassed. I missed a steamer in New York an' the firm was in a hurry, so they sent me across to Southampton, an' while I was waitin' for the Brazil boat a feller I'd picked up on board showed me around some. Well, it waint no longer he corralled me, quite willin', in a bar. I pulled off my hat and he says, 'Why d'you take off yo' hat?' and I says, 'Why don't you take off yours? Don't you see they's a lady here?' Then he bust out laughin' and everybody that was near enough to hear bust out laughin' an' the missus behind the bar laughed, too, though somehow it didn't sound as if she laughed because she couldn't help it."

Kemp paused to blush over the memory. He did not notice that the judge and J. Y. had drawn quietly nearer and that the rest of the group of grown-ups were intent on his words. "They's times," he continued, "when it's fittin' that a man should be without shootin' irons an' that was one of 'em. I can't rightly say what would have happened but guessin's easy. When he was through laughin' the feller that was showin' me around slapped me on the back and sez, 'That ain't no lady, it's a barmaid.' An' then they all laughed some mo' and the missus just kind o' laughed an' I thought 'a' been dreamin', but I thought I seen a look in her eyes that says she waint laughin' inside at all. Ever sence then I've been of opinion that a missus has no call to handle drinks an' I certainly hope I'll never see one 'adoin' of it under the home fence."

Kemp stayed at Maple House for a week. Before he left he was known throughout the countryside. His lanky figure, drooping mustaches, domed hat and the way he held out the reins in front of him when he rode marked him from the start, and when the youth of the surrounding farms learned that he was a genuine cowboy that had ridden everything with four legs, they worshiped from afar and gloried in casual approaches.

Just before he went away Kemp took it upon himself to call on Alix. Alan led him to where she sat on the lawn among the trees at The Firs and left him. Alix looked up in wonder at her. Kemp let his lanky frame down his tall, lank form. Kemp held his hat in his hand and twisted it nervously. "Mis' Lansing," he said, "I want you should let me say a few words to ye. I seen Mister Lansing 'bout five weeks ago."

Alix sprang to her feet, her pale cheeks aflame. "Yes," she said. "When—when is he comin'?" She sank down again and buried her face in her hands. The shame of putting that question to a stranger overwhelmed her.

Kemp sat down near her. "Sho, Mis' Lansing," he said, "don't you take it hard that you're gettin' word of Mr. Lansing through me. Him an' me an' Lieber's ben 'most partners."

Tenderness had crept into Kemp's drawl. Alix looked up. "Please," she said, "tell me all about him—all about these years."

Kemp hesitated before he spoke. "I ain't got the words nor the right to tell you all about them three years, Mis' Lansing, an' I can't tell you all about Mr. Lansing, 'cause the biggest part of some men don't meet the eye—it's inside on 'em. That's the way it is with Mr. Lansing. I can tell you, though, that Mr. Lansing is well an' strong—strong enough to swing a steer by the tail."

"That's what I know. Now I'll tell ye some o' my thoughts. Mr. Lansing waint born to be a maverick. Right now, I'm willin' to wager, he's headed for home and the corral, but he ain't comin' on the run—he's bravin' and chewin' his cud."

"When I seen him five weeks ago I thought on beg-tyin' him an' bringin' him along, 'cause Mr. Wayne had tol' me about you an' the two-year-old. But it come to me that a woman of spirit—one o' ourn—wouldn't want her man should be brought in. She'd sooner he'd hog-tie hisself."

Alix' head hung in thought. Her hands were clasped in her lap. As Kemp's last words sank in the first smile of many days came to her lips. Kemp rose and said good-by. With his hat pulled well over his brows and his hands in his pockets, he slouched toward the gate.

Alix jumped up and followed him. She laid her thin, light hand on his arm. "Thank you," she said, a little breathlessly. Kemp's deep-set eyes twinkled down on her. He held out his big, rough hand and Alix gripped it.

"Not good-by," she said.

Maple House was riding the crest of a happy wave. In a body it advanced on the lake to picnic and snapper by moonlight and in a body it returned; the little ones excited and wakeful, the grown-ups tired and reminiscent. Days followed that were filled with laziness and nights that rang with song. The cup of life was filled to the brim with little things. Sudden peals of unreasoning laughter, shrieks of children at play, a rumble of the piano followed by a rollicking college song, ready smiles on happy faces, broke like comets into the page of life, and turned memory into living phrases. But beneath the gayety ran the inevitable undertone. When joy paused to take breath it found Alan half aloof and Clem wistful behind her unvarying sweetness.

One evening Alan found himself alone with Nance. She had frankly cornered him, then as openly led him off down the road towards Elm House. "Alan," she said, "you've turned into a great fool or a great coward. Which is it?"

Alan glanced at her. "What do you mean?" he stammered.

"You know what I mean. Clem. You're breaking her heart."

Dinner Stories

A negro preacher was edified on one occasion by the recital of a dream had by a member of his church. "All dis time," said the narrator, "I was a dreamin' dat I was in Ole Satan's dominions. I tell you, pap-pahson, dat sho' was a bad dream!"

"Was any white men there?" asked the husky divine.

"No—plenty of 'em," the other hastened to assure the minister.

"What was they doin'?"

"Every one of 'em," was the answer, "was a-holdin' a child's person between him an' de fire!"

"Woman!" he snorted to the wife of his bosom. "Don't talk to me about women. They're all fools. They're all fools. Whenever you hear of anyone doing a specially foolish thing, you usually guess right when you say it was done by a woman."

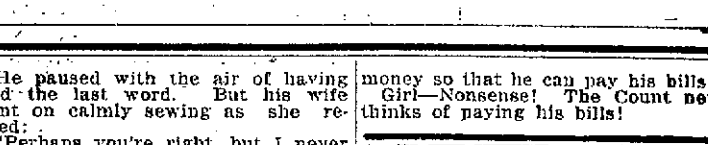

Has Faith In Remedy

Mrs. H. S. Carlson of Wakefield, Neb., testifies to the relief she experienced from the use of Fruitola and Traxo:

"I used Fruitola and Traxo with very good results, having passed almost a cupful of gall-stones with the first bottle. My skin is clear now, and I have a good appetite. I have lots of faith in Fruitola and Traxo."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, softening the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the congested waste in an easy, natural manner. A single dose is usually sufficient to clearly indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a splendid tonic-alterative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through representative druggists. In Jansville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milw. St.

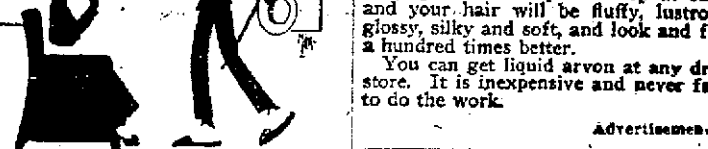

He paused with the air of having said the last word. But his wife went on calmly sewing as she replied: "Perhaps you're right, but I never heard of a woman buying a bottle of hair restorer from a bald-headed barber."

"Timson is a great sticker for economy isn't he?"

"He always lights one cigar from the butt of another to save matches."

"Some men are so suspicious," said Uncle Eben, "dat if a fairy was to come along an' offer to grant 'em three wishes, dey'd have de fairy arrested for bein' a swindler."

"Elasticity"—The Distinctive Value of Newspaper Advertising

By Jno. P. Cummings, General Advertising Agent Union Pacific System.

In my opinion "elasticity" is the word which expresses the distinctive value of newspapers for national advertisers. Of course effectiveness is taken for granted—but other media are effective. Elasticity, however, is an important characteristic which newspapers have in greater measure than any other medium.

The Union Pacific, in common with all other railroad systems, uses advertising to increase the sales of rides. The market for transportation is peculiarly susceptible to variation in financial and industrial conditions. When the wheat crop is good and the price is good, the people of Kansas, Minnesota and the Dakotas are ready and willing to travel. When the steel market is strong the Pittsburgh district furnishes a full quota of travelers. At other times other sections of the country are able to respond to railroad advertising.

By using newspapers the Union Pacific system can apportion its advertising expenditure in a way to bring the greatest returns—with the least waste—without trying to sell rides to people who cannot buy.

Marrying for Money

Ortrude Townsend Admits Her "Doctor" is there any hope? Ortrude had followed Dr. Ellison to the gate and was looking into his face with anxious interest. The doctor looked down at her in surprise.

"Does she care for him after all?" he thought, "or is this a pose?"

Perhaps she read the thought in his face, for she said:

"You are perhaps surprised that I am anxious about him; but I can tell you a human side. I do not wonder I have deserved all that you can possibly think of me. But save him. Oh, save him till I can show him that I am not all bad. He has been so wonderfully patient and kind in spite of my heartlessness, and cold neglect. Is there any hope of his getting well?"

"My dear Mrs. Townsend, there is very little hope that your husband will ever be well again, but that does not mean that he is sure to die soon. Paralysis is caused by a clot on the brain. The danger is that conditions that caused the clot in the first place may cause another before that has had time to be absorbed. The patient really lives through the third stroke. If, however, there is no second stroke for some time the forces rally and the clot is absorbed. The patient slowly rallies and sometimes it is years before another stroke comes." He looked pityingly at the girl's figure before him.

"Will he ever talk again?" she Heartlessness to Dr. Ellison.

"That is hard to tell, but I think there is no question that he understands what is said now. I am sure the brain is clear."

"Thank God for that. I can at least tell him how bitterly sorry I am for the past, even though I can never hear him say he forgives me. Thank you, doctor." She turned and went into the house.

For the first day or two of her husband's sickness she kept her room constantly. She felt that she could not meet Dudley since he had rent the veil of her selfish conceit with the scathing rebuke the night his father was taken sick. Maria and Mrs. Tupper relieved each other in caring for the sick man, and George and Dudley took turns helping with the night care. The third day after the stroke Ortrude appeared in the kitchen in a simple house dress and apron, and said to the astonished housekeeper:

"Can you help here. You are of use in the sick room. Leave the kitchen work to me," Tupper started. "I know how to work, and can cook a little. You can direct things and let the dishes be washed and the house kept in order."

"Well, thank you," said Mrs. Tupper. There is plenty that needs doing if you are willing to help. I am. Please tell me of anything I can do to make things easier." She rolled up her sleeves and began on the "What do you think?" whispered the woman to Maria. "She is washing dishes in the kitchen."

"It is the first dish she has ever washed in this house," said Maria tartly, "and I have known her to do. The kitchen is the only place I know of where she is harmless."

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nineteen and went with a man of twenty-two. I loved him with my whole heart and thought he was a prince, because me believe him almost perfect. I never considered spooning a time, but he coaxed me to it. I am a very affectionate person and cannot well conceal my feelings and on account of the five and confession I placed in him I gave in. It never occurred to me that he would coax me to do what I did not want to do.

The last time he called he seemed as usual, even more affectionate. He said he would not mention that he'd return. That was understood, for we kept steady company.

He has never returned, sent me word or shown his face since. That was eight months ago. If he didn't love me it was gentlemanly to lie and deceive me? Will a man of principle coax a girl to spoon just for a pastime? Would a gentleman leave a girl this way even if he didn't care for her friendship? Wouldn't honor call for an explanation on his part? I would have accepted such freely. I'll force myself on no man. What can I do? This is my first mistake and I feel as if I were disgraced.

As if I had committed a terrible sin.

RED HEADED SUSAN.

My opinion of this fellow is that he is too contemptible to be received in the name of any decent girl. Honorable men do not make love to women whom they do not wish for their wives. No matter how good an impression this man may have made upon you, be assured that he has a mean and thrifty soul and is not worthy of a good woman's love. Your mistake was in permitting him to take undue liberties. Let this be a lesson to you, and in future do not let any man kiss you until after he has asked you in all seriousness to marry him. Forget the man. Don't worry. You have committed no sin. In time you will find a worthy man, and you will be happy in his love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl and have no mother and would like some advice from you.

(1) Do you think it is right for my brothers and sisters to sit in the room paring apples and talking among themselves about me when I am a gentleman caller?

(2) Will patient leather trimming be worn on suits, etc., this spring?

(3) My gentleman friend sent me a box of expensive hose for my birthday. Should I not wear them? Should I return them so he can change them or what shall I do?

CORNER KID.

(1) Your brothers and sisters are very rude to do so. Leather trimming will be popular.

(2) If you know where he bought them return them yourself for the right size, but if you do not know, tell him that they do not fit and ask him if he will change them for the right size.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have gone with a fellow two years and now we are on the outs. He went home with another girl one night and I scrapped with him and gave him a good calling down. He got mad at me and has not been friendly since. He speaks to me and he has not met me six times since our quarrel. We have been mad now a year. Do you think he will come back? He hasn't any girl yet. He is very independent, and so am I. Is that the proper way to be?

BLONDY.

If a boy is not engaged to a girl he has the perfect right to do with whomever he wishes. It is well to be independent unless you carry it too far. You should not disregard another person's rights.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Should a girl of fifteen go out in an auto with a married man if her girl friends go with her?

(2) I have straight hair. What can I do to make it curly?

(3) I am in love with a young man. He is going away soon. Should I correspond with him?

DIMPLES.

CAPITAL SOCIETY FAVORITE WEDDED

Mrs. John James Higgins.

Mrs. John James Higgins, who until a few days ago was Miss Claire Lipscomb, one of the beauties of the resident set of Washington, is now in Atlantic City on her honeymoon. The engagement had been announced for some time, but the young couple surprised the "smart set" by being wedded without ceremony and leaving for the seaside resort. On their return they will occupy a suburban home in Maryland, now nearing completion.

room where there is diphtheria will help to prevent the disease from spreading. The onions should be buried every morning and fresh ones put out.

Harmless Laxative—Grind together one pound dates (seeded), one pound raisins (seeded), one pound prunes, five cents worth lemon leaves. Mix well, knead into ball, wrap in waxed paper. Each time a laxative is needed take a piece about as large as a hickorynut. This will keep a long while, and is much less expensive (also harmless) than the drugs sold for such purposes.

For Tickling Cough—Saturate cloth with turpentine, place under nose. For Chapped Hands—A small piece of home rendered lard rubbed well into the hands; wash in warm water, rinse in cold, dry well. Two or three applications and the worst case is cured. Use home rendered lard because you are sure there is no chemical in it.

Face Cream—Instead of buying expensive beauty creams, but one ounce borax, dissolve in one-half pint hot water, add one pint glycerine and shake well. This is the best lotion for attaining a clear, fine, white skin. When nice and scrub thoroughly. Use this for the face of old women for this purpose. It is to this day the chief ingredient in all skin preparations made by manufacturers.

Potato Boats for Luncheon—Select even-sized, large oblong potatoes with nice clear skin, and scrub thoroughly. Pour boiling water over them and let them stand ten or fifteen minutes. Wipe dry and place in oven to bake. Rub with very little lard, with (toothpick), take out and cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out potato carefully (to save shells), put into hot bowl or deep pan and add the following: Pepper and salt, parsley chopped (fine and butter to taste). Add hot milk to make it very light and fluffy after a vigorous beating with eggbeater. Drop this back into shells (heap high but do not pack down) and top with stiffly beaten white of eggs and grated cheese. Put all filled shells in shallow pan and toast egg white in oven. Serve hot with french cake and mayonnaise, garnished with sprigs of parsley, bread and butter sandwiches cut very thin, demitasse and whipped cream. Finish with any desired fruit cocktail.

Raisin Cake—One pound raisins stewed fifteen minutes in three cups boiling water. After stewed, add one cup cold water, one and one-half cups sugar, one cup melted lard, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one tablespoon soda dissolved in a little water. Bake in layers and cover with any desired frosting. This recipe makes a very large cake and is very cheap. Do not make batter too stiff. Bake slowly in hot oven.

Quick Rarebit—Three tablespoons butter, one pint ten-cent package sharp cheese; the whole creamed together and cooked, then poured over wafers.

Potato and Cheese—Beat potatoes until light by adding a little cream, gorm into balls, scoop out a spoonful and insert grated cheese, cover and let brown in oven.

Spanish Potatoes—Reheat potatoes, add some pimientos and serve with a spoonful of creamed peas in the center of each serving.

A pan of raw onions placed in a

Potatoes in Sweet Peppers—Use leftover potatoes and mix with a few olives (cut fine), celery, nuts and, if there is any cold meat, grind this cold meat. Use just a suggestion of onion and some cayenne pepper. Fill peppers and bake until tender.

Potato Fondue—Add some milk or cream to the cold potatoes and heat, then beat until very light, add the yolk of an egg, also the white beaten and cover with a half cup of cream and sprinkle with dry bread crumbs. Bake.

THE PEREN NIAL TONIC

Now is the time to purify your blood. That is, if you hibernated, as everybody did a generation ago. Our fathers required spring tonics because the hard winters in those days left the city pretty weak. Their mothers had no use at all for night air and ten nights in a barroom was nothing at all compared with a hundred nights in the old-time bed-room, with the windows nailed shut and weather-strips tacked on the casing. The blood requires purifying and the system needs a tonic whatever that may be—in the summer, fall and winter. Oh, yes, we mustn't forget the spring. Why, sure enough, it is a "spring tonic," isn't it? No, you want a summer tonic or a fall tonic or a winter tonic.

Just what a tonic is we do not pretend to know, though we have prescribed a few barrels of tonics, at the best of confiding patients. If a tonic is something the system needs, something to restore a depraved condition to normal conditions, we can recommend one for general consumption. But that is for the general consumer. But the great trouble with our tonics and things is that they can't be bottled and taken from a spoon. Good medicine is often hard to take. The formula is as follows:

Put on your low-heeled, thick-soled shoes, leave off your gaiters, throw out your chest and pin a note on the door saying: "Gone to call on Nature. Back soon with more pep." Then turn your face toward the sun and hit up a brisk, swinging pace. Walk till you begin to feel tired, then back home again. Make it at least two miles, and every day, rain or shine. Walking in the rain is the most enjoyable experience imaginable, if you are doing it from deliberate choice.

Every wife who loves her husband should take this tonic, no matter how much work. Every husband who reciprocates the obligation needs such a tonic to keep his efficiency. Every maid needs it to preserve the suppleness of her skin. In fact every one is invited to try it. When the doctor, of his own volition, calls your treatment "tonic," take it. He knows what he means. But if it is a case of choosing your own, you will find a mile or two of oxygen more satisfactory than any of the perennial concoctions displayed by your friend the druggist to "corral the nimble plunk."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
The Relief of Hot Flashes
I am fifty-two and suffer greatly from hot flashes. Is there no relief—just amelioration, or must I grin and bear it?

Answer—Go to your physician and ask him if he thinks organo-therapy would be worth trying.

The Cure of Fistula
Please advise me whether there is any cure for rectal fistula, which began as an abscess, and breaks out every little while?

Answer—Yes. Operation. The sooner the better. There is no other treatment worth trying.

How Much Soda?
How much saleratus or soda may one take as a dose? How much may a child of four take?

Answer—From a pinch to a tablespoonful, in water.

Pasteurizing Milk.
1. Does cow's milk lose any of its nutritive value when heated to 150 degrees F. for half an hour? 2. Will this temperature sterilize it? 3. Would you advise sterilized milk for a baby one year old about to be weaned, or just raw milk?
Answer—Pasteurizing—heating to 150 or 155 degrees F., and holding at that temperature for an hour, destroys most harmful germs, but does not completely sterilize (that is, make germ-free) the milk. Pasteurizing probably does not affect the nutritive value of the milk. If you are sure the milk comes from tuberculin tested herds (cows free from tuberculosis), and that it is properly handled—kept cool and clean—raw milk is always preferable for infant feeding. If you are not sure about the milk, pasteurize it.

TWO SISTERS

We were talking the other day about two sisters, who, though they had the same amount of education and equal opportunities, have made very different use of them.

One has developed into an unusually sweet girl. She has excellent manners, she speaks well, she is intelligent in the worth-while things of the day. With very little to work with she has created a pleasant home, full of evidences of good taste. On a small income she dresses stylishly and with refinement.

She married into a family who thought themselves rather above her but who have learned to admire and respect her.

In short, she has bought golden opinions from all sorts of men, and unlike the wife for whom that phrase was coined, she will probably continue to deserve them.

The other sister has not developed with the years. Though she married better, from a financial point of view, and had much more to work with, her home is not half as attractive as her sister's. She herself is over-dressed, she is common, her manner is unbecoming, and her speech is unattractive.

"What's the matter with Gertrude?" I asked the woman who was telling me about the two girls, and has known them from childhood.

"She never distinguished herself. Just one thing," she answered. "She hasn't a particle of self-interest and never did have. She was satisfied with herself as a girl, and she is now and always will be, and consequently she hasn't improved and never will. Rosa was different, she was less content of herself. She was sensitive to the differences between herself and the girls who had more advantages."

If anyone snubbed Rosa, she tried to find out what the matter with her was, and she found out and corrected it. Today she is more truly a lady than most of the girls who used to think themselves above her. If people snubbed Gertrude, she simply decided they were snobs and disliked them. She never thought of distinguishing herself."

I wonder if there is any bigger obstacle to progress than this lack of self-distinction?

"He sure you are right and then go ahead," is a splendid motto. "Be sure you are right and then stand still" is a dangerous one.

It is self-respect worth unless you deserve it? There is such a thing as too much self-analysis, too much self-distrust. Likewise there is such a thing as too much salt in our food, but remember, it is impossible to live without some pinch of salt.

MILITARY STYLES ARE NOT WORN IN ITALY FOR IT IS AGAINST THE LAW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Rome, March 14.—Military styles may hold sway in America and other neutral countries, but in Italy she who would be fashionable must eschew soldier modes.

Time was when it was difficult to get a chic American out of Italy without one of those swarthy military capes which are considered the most graceful and altogether the most ravishing articles of wearing apparel woman has borrowed from male fashions.

Today any woman found guilty of wearing military uniforms, which lately adorns the risk of being dearly for the affront. It isn't to be done. The result is there is a big business in making over military capes into cloaks. These military capes, with a fascinating aureole of drapery that thrills the feminine heart when wrapped around the form of a dashing officer, may be worn only by these same officers.
